

1893

Society of Anaesthetists founded

1907

The Royal Society of Medicine founded

1901

1908

The Anaesthetic Section of the Royal Society of Medicine founded

1921

1923

British Journal of Anaesthesia Launched

1932

The Association of Anaesthetists of Great Britain and Ireland established (AAGBI)

1935

The Diploma in Anaesthetics (DA) introduced

1941

1948

The National Health Service introduced

1948

Two-part Diploma in Anaesthetics (DA) began

1948

Faculty of Anaesthetists of the Royal College of Surgeons of England (RCS Eng) created

1953

Fellow of the Faculty of Anaesthetists, Royal College of Surgeons (FFARCS) by examination began

1961

1988

The College of Anaesthetists within the Royal College of Surgeons of England (RCS Eng) replaced the Faculty

1993

The Queen formally opened the Royal College of Anaesthetists' building at Russell Square, London

1992

The College was awarded a Royal Charter to become the Royal College of Anaesthetists (RCoA)

2001

2007

Founding of the Faculty of Pain Medicine

2006

Founding of the Faculty of Intensive Care Medicine

The RCoA moved to Churchill House, Red Lion Square, London, officially opened by the College's Patron, HRH The Princess Royal

2010

2017

25th Anniversary of the Royal College of Anaesthetists

